ANOTHER CASE OF PANEL THIEVING. The crime of panel thieving is largely on the increase in this city. The mode is very simple. The rictim is accosted on the street by a disreputable woman, and induced to accompany her to a particular house, where he is conducted to a room having a movable panel ent in one of the doors. The furniture of the room consists of a hed, a chair or two, and a lounge. The chairs and lounge are placed near the door in which is the panel mentioned. The victim, before retiring, naturally places mentioned. sists of a bed, a chair of two, and a lounge. The chairs sud lounge are placed near the door in which is the panel mentioned. The victim, before retiring, naturally places his clothing on either the lounge or chairs. The bed is placed in such a position that the chairs and lounge cannot be seen by a person occupying it. While the attention of the victim is attracted by his sompanion, a confederate of the latter opens the sliding panel, and rifes his clothing. It is seldom that all of the money in the wallet is taken, so that not until after the owner has left the house does he discover his loss. In very many cases it is a difficult matter to get the loser to make a complaint, owns to the publicity that is given to the case when brought into court, and the disgrace that would attach to him for visiting such a house. He prefers to submit quietly to his loss, and the police, after arresting the thieves, are often compelled to release them because the only person who could offer any evidence against the culprits refuses to make complaint. Such a case occurred yesterday in the Tombs Police Court, before Justice Hogan. Capt. Walsh of the Fourteenth Precinct brought before the magistrate a rather good-looking and mishly dressed young woman, giving the name of Minnie Forrest, who said she resided at No. 45 West-Houston-st. She was charged by Capt. Walsh with having lured a man late the well-known panel-thieving den No. 50 Crosby-st., where he was robbed of $600. The victim, a well-dressed, has looking man of middle age, was called by the magistrate, who asked his name, but this he declined to give. He was informed by the magistrate that unless he gave its name no complaint could be taken. He still refused, mying that he would rather lose twice the sum than rescal it—in fact, $5,000 in gold would be no inducement. The magistrate admonished him that it was his duty to nake complaint, in order that the guilty might be punshed and prevented from preying upon others who would mying that he would rather lose twice his said that real fe-in fact, $5,000 in gold would be no inducement. The magistrate admonished him that it was his duty to make complaint, in order that the guilty might be punshed and prevented from preying upon others who would selured into the den in like manner if the prisoner was shewed to go at large. No reasoning on the part of the magistrate would induce the victim to reveal his induce of make complaint. In explanation of the robusty, he said that he met the prisoner on the street, and accompanied her to a house in Crosby-st, near foring, where he remained with her but a few moments, when a knock was heard at the door, and the prisoner hurriedly returned him some money which he had given her, and, at her request, he rapidly gained he street. He did not miss his money for two or three days afterward. He had six $100 bills and $45 in small bills in his pocket-book when he went into the house with the prisoner. The $100 bills were taken. The smaller snew were not disturbed. Capt. Waish described the place as a most noterious "panel crib," and one that he had been long anxious to break up. Detective McKeever testified that he arrested the woman on the street on Tuesday night, and she was fully identified by the victim as the woman whom he had accompanied into the house. When arrested the woman insuhed, and said she knew nothing of the stelen money. Capt. Waish said that when the victim came to the Station-House he seemed very anxious to gat hack his money. East, which said that when the victim came to the Station-House he seemed very anxious to gat hack his money. East, which make a complaint, but he (Capt. Waish) wished to ronvince the Magistrate that he was acting honestly in the matter, and was desirons of breaking up these houses in his precinct. As there seemed to be no chance of getting the victim to make complaint, the Magistrate canked Detective McKeever if he could make a complaint against the prisoner to Blackwell's Island for six months on the charge of diso

NARY STATEMENTS, IF TRUE.

About a mile and a-half south of Sing-Sing Prison is the village of Sparta, and, if report be true, there have been scenes enacted there which reflect seriously on the management of Sing-Sing State Prison. A gentleman who resides at Sparta, and is well known as a reliable man, but whose same is withheld for prudential reasons, states that about a month ago a convict was allowed to leave the prison and visit a liquor saleon in Sparta, to make some purchases, from whence he escaped. Since then and before July 5, other convicts have visited the place without molestation. One week ago Saturday night, convicts were in the same mill till 3 on Sunday meeting. One person says that he saw Jack Kanter, a notorious counterfeiter and forger, who is serving his third term in the prison, in the saleon in question on Sunday. 4th. He says that Kanter's wife has been demiclied at Mr. Bell's residence in Sparta, and that Kanter was there all day on the 5th of July. On the same night a negro convict named Peterson, accompanied by a man named Redd, arrived at the house, bringing with them two bottles of wine, and the immates of the house drank of it till it was gone. The negro attempted to take haproper liberties with Kanter's wife, where upon Kanter haterfered. A general row ensued, during white Kanter was knecked down, the negro retiring a rue, there have been seenes enacted there which reflect t is in the habit of going to Sparta, taking a banjo with s, and phaying it when he gets there. There is a genl feeling of indignation among the inhabitants of aria in regard to the matter, and the more prominent & of closing their houses and leaving the place, the morning of the 5th of July Jack Kanter's wife approach the raffroad depot with a black eye, and took cars for New-York. Ladies of Sing Sing have been thed by convicts at night, as have also females at 15th.

TRIAL OF A FIRE-DETECTOR. Yesterday afternoon a party of gentlemen assembled at No. 60 Fulton-st., to witness the trial of Diot's Fire-Detector, a new invention, designed to give proff pt warning of the breaking out of a fire. The apparatus consists of a small instrument, in shape and size rates consists of a small instrument, in shape and size much like a marine clock, which is fixed to the wall of he apartment, and an alarm connected with the detector by a wire. The principle on which the operation of he instrument is based is that of the expansion of metals ay heat. A steel and brass spring within the case of the heteror catches lightly in a notched side-piece to which the alarm wire is attached. A simple arrangement of a track and a cam makes a connection between the spring within and the hand on the face of the machine, on which are marked the degrees of temperature up to 160. Fig. hand being moved to any given point on the dial the festived degree of temperature of the room is regulated, and if, through any cause, the heat should rise above the degree marked, the inner spring expands and drops the stee tiere, and the alarm is rang. The detector may desired degree of temperature of the room is regulated, and if, through any cause, the neat should rise above the degree marked, the inner spring expands and drops the ship piece, and the alarm is rang. The detector may be used in stores, dwellings, warehouses, ships, and steamers, and is so simple in its construction that any one can regulate if. The alarm and detector may be placed in the same room, or at any distance from each other. A factory owner in Massichaectts has his mill supplied with a number of detectors, all connected with an alarm set up at his dwelling a mile away. In tenement houses all the detectors are connected with a large sality and as the bell rings a large card falls bearing the number of the story from which the alarm proceeds. The experiments made yesterday were very successful and decidedly interesting. The inventor of the fire-detector is Mr. Chas. Dion, of Montreal, a cousin of the celebrated billiard player. His apparators is mainfactured by a company, of which Chas. D. Predericks of No. 735 Broad way, is President.

On July 5 the deceased accompanied some friends on an excursion to Staten Island, on the schooner George Green, commanded by John McLoughin. The most of the party, including the deceased, became more or less intoxicated. They returned to the foot of West Fourteeuth st. soon after 9 o'clock p. m. Deceased was too much under the influence of liquor to go home, and those on the sloop promised to take care of him during the night. He had down on some sails on the deck, in company with two or three men employed on the schooner. On the following morning, when the party aweke, Howard was missing. Supposing that he had awakened and gone home without saying anything to the remainder of the party, no search was made for him. As he did not come home, his mother visited the schooner, and made inquiries for him. No information further than the above could be given by any of the crew. On Saturday his body was found floating in the North River. An effort was made by his friends to show that there had been a difficulty between Howard and some of those on board during the exeursion, but there was nothing elicited to show that such was the Base. After much discussion, Mr. Edelsten, for defense, wishing to proceed at once or adjourn for some time, Mr. Snehly asked to be allowed to examine an important witness who would leave town in a few days. The witness is Delia Gill, a servant at the house of Mrs. Clark, where the complaniant boarded at the time of Vreeland's visits to her. Her affidavit was read, but will not be submitted in evidence until to-day at 2 o'clock, at which time it was finally decided the case should be heard. THE PHELPS LODGING-HOUSE. About 15 months ago, the Children's Aid Society leased the Ward School building No. 327 Riv. ington-st. for five years, and opened it as a lodging-house for friendless and homeless boys and as a longing-house for friendless and homeless boys and as a day-school for poor children of both sexes. The building is four stories high and stands in the center of the lot, thus securing excellent ventilation for the lodging-rooms, which are in the two upper stories. There are 100 beds in all, and the bedding and rooms are serupulously clean. On the second floor is a large school-room, where the boys are taught to read and write. The lower-floor front room is occupied as a reading, dining and school-room. Files of all the daily newspapers published in this city are kept, and also the weekly illustrated papers. Back of this room are the kitchen and bath-rooms. The latter is supplied with hot and cold water. Every boy is required to take a bath before retiring. The house has lodged and fed hearly 1,200 different boys since it was opened. In Winter the beds are generally all occupied each night, but in Summer a large number of the boys prefer sleeping in old boilers, lumber-yards, &c., so that the number is reduced to 30 or 40, who are regular boarders. The "regulars" are mostly bootblacks or newsboys, who pay five cents for their lodgings and the same for each meal. The boys are all called at 6 a. m., but some of the enterprising ones are out as early as 4 plying their vocations. There are boxes arranged into which they can put their earnings, if they choose; and there have been boys who have saved as high as $25 and $40 a month. Most of the boys are addicted to gambling, chewing tobacco, and swearing, but as these vices are not tolerated at all in the building they soon give them up. Some time ago a complaint was lodged with the Board of Health against the acetic acid factory of Messra. Close & Sprague, on Flushing-ave., Brooklyn An examination was commerced, and yesterday continued by the testimony of Professor Chandler, Chemist to the Board of Health. He deposed that he visited the premises on Saturday last; the process employed there for making acetic acid ought not, is his opinion, to be productive of a missance; the materials are acetate of lime and muriatic acid, which are not incorporated by steam; the only exit is through a tube which first passes into a trap, then through a purifier, then through a worm which condenses the acetic acid; the disagreeable steaches of the acid are conducted by a special tube to the fire, where they are consounce; if the apparatus is high, as it was when he examined it, he could see no reason why any nuisance could take place; over the vessel he could sincil the pungent fumes of the acid, but they are not offensive; noticed two stills, one of which was in operation; his impression is that one apparatus connects with both stills open, of course gases will escape; things looked neat and clean around. Col. Broome of the Marine Barracks was recalled, and said he smell the same effensive smell on Monday might, and suffered considerably through nervousness. These odors upset his whole nervousness. ## SUICIDE BY SHOOTING.

On the 5th inst. Edward Jewett, a coachpainter, accompanied by his wife, came to this city from New-Haven, Conn., where he has been working at his trade for several years past, on a visit to Mrs. Norton, a cousin of Mrs. Jewett, residing at No. 153 Sixth-ave. Refore leaving New-Haven, Mr. Jewett had acted in a rather strange manner, seeming unaccountably nervous and excitable, and occasionally leaving his work without assigning any reason. Since his arrival in this city, Jewett has complained of a pain in his head. Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Jewett left the house and was absent for an hour or two. On her return, her husband again complained of an intense pain in his head, and she bathed his temples with cologne. Suddenly, and without a word of explanation, Jewett thrust his wife uside, and ran up stairs into the attic. In a moment afterward the sound of a pustol shet was heard, and when the fright-ened wife and others of the household burried up stairs, they found Jewett lying on the floor, bleeding from a pistol-shot wourd in the right temple, and beside him a small four-barried Sharp's repeating pistol. The ball had entered the brain, causing death in a few minutes. He was unconscious when found. No cause can be assigned by the wife or relatives for the commission of the act. He was aged 25 years. Dr. Glinn made a post mortem examination of the body hast night, and Coroner Flynn will hold an inquest to-day. consin of Mrs. Jewett, residing at No. 153 Sixth-ave. Be

THE YELLOW FEVER GONE.

The yellow fever has entirely disappeared The yellow fever has entirely disappeared from Quarantiae. All well passengers on board the Frolic have been allowed to come to the city, after having obtained a complete suffit of new clothing. There are at present but one or two persons on board the hospital ship who belonged to the ill-starred Saratoga, but they have very nearly recovered their health, and will, in a day or so, be permitted also to depart. The Saratoga, which is now anchored in the Lower Bay, although she has been thoroughly cleaned and famigated, will be kept at Quarantine until the cold weather sets in.

Mr. Dill expresses his determination to bring suit for damages against the Company.

A TEST OF PRAT FUEL.

A trial to test the comparative calorific power of peat fuel was made in the Engine-room of THE TRIBUNE establishment on the night of the 11th inst. The two boilers are precisely alike, and in the trial used the same draft. Fires were started at 9 p. m., and the work continued stendily until 4a. m. Under one boiler one ordinary fuel—Lehigh Authracte, chestnut size—was burned, and under the other the fuel prepared by a Peat Company, each being carefully weighed. Seven hundred pounds of each were consumed, with the same resulting duty in both. This peat fuel is very compact, and in this instance was the non-resinous variety, yielding 10.8 per cent of ash. The Engineer expresses the opinion that, for making steam, it is equal, tun for tun, to the coal commonly used for that purpose.

NEW-YORK DIVORCES AND NEW-JERSEY MAR-RIAGES.

Victorine Steinhauser agt. John A. Steinhau-Victorine Steinhauser agt. John A. Steinhauser.—Supreme Court Chambers—Before Sutherland, J.—This was a motion by defendant to be released from prison. There was a divorce suit in which the plaintiff succeeded in obtaining the ordinary decree, including almony to herself and a prohibition of the defendant's marriage. These two points the defendant disobeyed—he is in arrear in his alimony and has married again, but on the other side of the Hudson. He was found in New-York and committed to jail by Judge Ingraham for contempt of Court in not paying alimony. He now asks to be discharged on the ground that he cannot pay the money. The motion is resisted on the ground that by incurring the expense of a wife if at all he has deprived himself of the power to pay his alimony, and that the cause of his inability is but an aggravation of his fault, since it is itself a contempt of Court. The Court reserved its decision. Charles Wehle for plaintiff, Mr. A. Smith for defendant.
